Some of Guardamar's wonders

The town is blessed with a unique and exceptional natural setting: the Dunes of Guardamar. Located to the south of the town, these dunes are a protected area that is home to valuable biodiversity. Sauntering among the dunes is a magical experience, where the sea breeze caresses your face and the birdsong creates a natural symphony.

Visitors can explore the dunes by following trails that wind through native vegetation, providing an opportunity to feel at one with nature. The Alfonso XIII Park is also well worth a visit. This urban park is an oasis of shade and greenery, ideal for relaxing, playing sports, or enjoying a pleasant picnic in a peaceful setting.

The cuisine of Guardamar is a feast for the palate, where the flavours of the sea come together with the richness of the land. Fresh seafood dishes are a treat for the senses and reflect the region's fishing tradition. 'Caldero' is one of the star dishes, a tasty fish and rice soup typical of the area.

The town also boasts a rich cultural tradition and celebrates various festivals throughout the year. One of the most significant events is Holy Week, a religious festival that captivates many tourists and locals. Processions and religious events are followed with fervour, creating an emotional and spiritual atmosphere on the town's streets.

The Moors and Christians festivities are another highlight of Guardamar del Segura's cultural calendar. These colourful and lively celebrations commemorate the historic struggle between Muslims and Christians during the Reconquista.

Parades, music, and firework displays take the crowd on a journey back in time, reliving the region's history in a fun and educational way.
