Inland Almeria, Cuevas del Almanzora

For those who are looking for a property under the Spanish sun, this is an excellent opportunity. This cosy family house is situated only 50 metres from the Mediterranean Sea, in a quiet village near the seaside resort of San Juan de los Terreros and the village of Pulpí, known for the enormous crystal cave 'Geoda de Pulpí'. Where in other, larger seaside resorts the tourists are jostling for a place on the beach, here the real Spanish atmosphere still prevails. The house we are about to visit is a semi-detached house with terrace, balcony, patio and garage. We can enter the house in two ways, through the spacious garage or through the terrace. Let's start there. When we are on the terrace, we have a view on the green garden of your opposite neighbour, overgrown with large palms. Can you imagine sitting here in your lounge set, enjoying a Tinto de Verano with the murmur of the sea in the background You can certainly spend a few hours here. We enter the house through a hallway from where we enter the living room on the left. The large doors that open onto the terrace let in a lot of natural light. The living room has typical Spanish tiles on the walls, which have a chic look. Take a look at the beautiful finish of this recently renovated property. Everything is in tip-top shape. If we walk straight through the hall, we come to the spacious kitchen. This looks very neat and is fully equipped. From the kitchen we have a view on the patio, which has a toilet with sink and a separate outdoor shower. On the first floor we find three spacious bedrooms, a somewhat smaller room and a central bathroom. The bedroom at the front of the house has a spacious balcony from where we have a view of the sea. The bedrooms at the back of the house have a view on your rear neighbours. There is plenty of natural light in all the rooms through the large windows. If you are looking for a nice house on a quiet spot on the Mediterranean coast, then this is your chance. Would you like to know more or would you like to see this property with your own eyes Then please do not hesitate to contact us. The team of Spanish Town and Country Homes would like to show you around the house personally.
